

As many of you have noticed, Hanson's Garden Village has stopped our plastic recycling program this spring. We have happily offered this service to our customers in the past, but with the threat of the Jumping Worm in southern parts of the state, we are halting all plastic recycling in order to stop any possible spread of this invasive and destructive insect. We want to be proactive in preserving our environment and hope our customers understand why we have made the hard decision to terminate our recycling program.

More information on the Jumping Worm can be found here:
